The abuse of social media to engage in character assassination through criticizing, denigrating, lampooning or diabolizing others should in any just society demand that they be shut down until we learn to be more prudent and civilized in our interactions.

Teach us, Lord, to love each other as You have loved us and to manifest that love in social harmony and peace of mind and heart.

Thoughts for prayers SHALOM

In his wisdom, Paul teaches the Galatians that Christian liberty is a great gift. Like all great gifts it demands great prudence and care in its use. Hence Paul warns us “So be careful.”

In the modern world where we speak so much about human rights and especially about “freedom of speech” and freedom of expression, we far too often fall into the trap of injustice and lack of that charity which is the foundation of all forms of harmony and acceptance.

Unfortunately, for so many people, the trap of injustice is provided by various forms of social media, with the result that the incredible and marvelous forms of modern technology are often used abusively. Thoughtless people use social media to make mindless and unreflected comments, that often border on the illegal and even the criminal and technically, leave the writers open to prosecution under the law.

This text of Luke points to a key moment in the life of Jesus: when he begins his long journey to Jerusalem, where he will die, will be glorified and ascend to the father. The journey opens with three vocational scenes. First, we have an enthusiastic follower, whom Christ suggests to waive his property as a condition for discipleship. Secondly, he requires radical disengagement from all affection, forbidding even to attend the funeral of his father. In the last vocation story, Jesus affirms that to follow him one must break completely with the past.
